DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Claims 14-19 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected group II, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 9/14/04.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-3, 12 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Kitoh et al. (6,710,484).

Regarding claim 1, Kitoh et al. shows all of the limitations of the claimed invention including the fixing means (13, 14) for releasably fixing the control circuit board to the gear housing to prevent movement of the control circuit board relative to the gear housing in a second direction, which is opposite from the first direction.

Regarding claims 2-3, 12 and 13, it is noted that Kitoh et al. also shows all of the limitations of the claimed invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

6. Claims 7-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kitoh et al. in view of Hulsmann et al. (6,107,713).

Regarding claim 7, Kitoh et al. shows all of the limitations of the claimed invention except for a fitting joint.

Hulsmann et al. shows the fitting joint for the purpose of mounting the control circuit case.

Since Kitoh et al. and Hulsmann et al. are all from the same field of endeavor; the purpose disclosed by one inventor would have been recognized in the pertinent art of the others.

It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to include a fitting joint as taught by Hulsmann et al. for the purpose discussed above.

Regarding claims 8-10, it is noted that Kitoh et al. also shows all of the limitations of the claimed invention.

7. Claim 11 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kitoh et al. in view of Lekeux et al. (6,191,512).

Regarding claim 11, Kitoh et al. shows all of the limitations of the claimed invention except for a guide portion.

Lekeux et al. shows the guide portion for the purpose of mounting the control circuit board.

Since Kitoh et al. and Lekeux et al. are all from the same field of endeavor; the purpose disclosed by one inventor would have been recognized in the pertinent art of the others.

It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to include a guide portion as taught by Lekeux et al. for the purpose discussed above.

Allowable Subject Matter

8. Claims 4-6 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

9. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: the record of prior art does not show the motor comprising the control circuit board having a fixing portion, which is formed in one of the circuit board side connector and a wall of the control circuit board; the gear housing includes a pin receiving through hole that penetrates through a wall of the gear housing in a third direction, which is perpendicular to the first direction, wherein the pin receiving through hole of the gear housing is aligned with the fixing portion in the third direction; the fixing means includes a fixing pin, which includes a pin main body and a removal limiting portion; the removal limiting portion extends radially outward from a base end of the pin main body, which is opposite from a distal end of the pin main body and is located apart from the fixing portion; and the distal end of the pin main body is inserted through the pin receiving through hole of the gear housing and is installed to the fixing portion, so that the removal limiting portion engages the wall of the gear housing around the pin receiving through hole of the gear housing.
